Bungii and Goodwill Partner on Deliveries

Washington, DC: Goodwill of Greater Washington (Goodwill) has partnered with Bungii to provide a simple solution for store-to-home delivery. Now, Goodwill customers can get their large in-store purchases home easier than ever before by downloading the app and requesting a delivery.

Bungii is an app based delivery service that puts a pickup truck and a driver at your fingertips. Whether you are buying a couch off of craigslist, buying a mattress from the store, or just trying to bring some boxes to storage, Bungii can do it all.

Our mission is simple: we believe providing an easy way to get stuff around town makes life easier for everyone. Request a delivery on-demand, or schedule your delivery in advance to connect with a local, Bungii certified driver.

“Bungii is extremely excited to partner with the Goodwill of Greater Washington,” says co-founder Harrison Proffitt. “Their mission to serve the community and empower people aligns directly with our goals at Bungii. We couldn’t have asked for a better fit as a partnership.”

“We’re very pleased to be able to offer our customers a new, efficient, and inexpensive method to move large purchases from our stores to their homes”, said Brendan Hurley, Goodwill of Greater Washington Chief Marketing Officer. “Bungii will unquestionably improve the shopping experience at Goodwill.”

Within 24 hours of a Goodwill customer scheduling a delivery from a Goodwill store on the Bungii app, a certified, licensed and insured driver will pick up the merchandise from the store where it was purchased and deliver it to the customer’s desired location. Cost is dependent upon the size of the item being delivered and the distance to delivery. A cost estimate will be provided to the customer through the app before the customer confirms the delivery. The customer simply pays by attaching a credit card to their account profile on the Bungii app.

Effective October 1st, all Goodwill of Greater Washington stores will begin promoting the Bungii app for home deliveries. While customers can still hire a delivery company of their choice, Bungii will become the exclusive, preferred home delivery partner for Goodwill of Greater Washington stores.

App users can download Bungii from the iTunes app store and through Google Play.
